

Bibliography

A draft bibliography of Australian theatre, drama and performance, exported from AusStage, <http://www.ausstage.edu.au>

AusStage researchers have been compiling a bibliography on Australian theatre, drama and performance since 2007. Our aim is to integrate bibliographic records of books, anthologies, chapters and scholarly articles with the AusStage dataset on live performance.

Joanne Tompkins, Helena Grehan and Neal Harvey (2009) discuss the initial work on bibliography in 'AusStage: From Database of Performing Arts to a Performing Database of the Arts'.

Follow-up work in 2010-2011 focused on data entry from existing bibliographies and journals, including:

- Jonathan Bollen's bibliography on Australian drama prepared for the Marking Masculinity project in 2002 (542 records)
- Rand Hazou's 'Australian theatre, drama and performance books' from 2009 (130 records)
- Australasian Drama Studies, 2000-2011 (271 records)
- On Stage, 2010-2011 (71 records)

The current count of bibliographic records for books, anthologies, chapters, scholarly journal articles and theses is 1,014; some play scripts are also included. Each record is related to one or more events, contributors, organisations, venues, genres, content indicators and works.

Bibliographic records may be retrieved as books, anthologies, chapters and articles via the Resource Search on AusStage. They also appear as related resources when browsing event, contributor, organization and venues records in AusStage.

This work on bibliography is ongoing. We intend to enter records from Performance Paradigm, About Performance, Popular Entertainment, from postgraduate and honours theses via Australian Digital Theses (now part of the National Libraries' Trove), and ADSA conference papers from the ADSA History Project.

We welcome contributions to the effort, particularly in the form of bibliographies; publication lists from CVs, and offers to enter bibliographic data sets.

Note: In this draft, bibliographic entries are formatted using a built-in citation style from the AusStage resource table. The citation style was designed for use with a wide range of resource types, not just bibliographic records. It has been modified to approximate bibliographic style for this export, but publication titles are not italicized, and article and chapter titles are not enclosed in quotation marks.
